

EXT. CLEARING IN A FOREST ON EARTH - NIGHT

A dark, gloomy forest. A flying saucer shaped SPACESHIP stand with its door open, a bright blue light shine down onto a clearing. LUCY, around the age of 16, wearing clothes appropriate of the 80's which contrasts with the futuristic look of the spaceship, appears. With excitement, and fear, she runs towards it. This is the day she has been waiting for, finally she will meet her dad she always wanted so badly. Panting, she stops and have a look around. The fog is hanging low and in any other time she would be terrified, but this time she feels comforted by the familiar nature of the earth around her. She hears footsteps coming from the opening. And out of the bright lights from within comes a dark figure.

DAD

I've been waiting for you, my dear Lucy

Overcome by joy, Lucy runs towards him and hugs him firmly. His features appear, with a stern face but the similarity between the two are noticeable. He hugs her, rather reluctantly.

LUCY

Dad! I've been waiting for you too, for all my life. We have to get you out of here, how did you escape the bad Ozknor tribe?

She looks around her in fear, maybe they're all around them? Hiding in the shadows around them, waiting to strike.

But her dad's evil laugh breaks the silence, and her fear is being replaced with confusion.

DAD

You gullible little thing. Do you really think that the weak, small tribe of the Ozknor stand a chance against ME the great Wixilian? No, my dear. I went to their planet to kill them all... and earth is next.

A Beat

Lucy steps back. Shocked.

Lucy

What... what do you mean? I came here to save you. I came here so we could be a family!

Dad

I see you have lived a life of lie. I'm sure that woman mustn't love you, as she knows what you are. She's one that will betray those closest to her, only because of differences. She did it with me, and I'm sure she's happy you're out of her sight!

He quickly turns away. Emotional.

LUCY

Dad, what happened between you and mum?

Flashback scene begins.

EXT. IN A PARK - DAYTIME

We see a young couple, happily sitting in the sun. The camera moves closer and we can recognise them as Wixilian and KAREN, Lucy's mother.

DAD

We were a happy couple, we met when I had a mission on earth as I was a part of the Ozknor army. I didn't tell her in the beginning.. what I was. I thought that if I just hid some parts of the truth to begin with, that she would fall in love with me first and it would all be OK. Instead, I told her my name was William and I was in the army, which wasn't exactly a lie.

INT. LIVING ROOM - DAYTIME

The flashback moves to the same couple sitting on a sofa, in a very warm-toned, small and simply decorated living room. Through small windows, we can see that the rain is pouring down outside. Karen is holding a pregnancy test, both of them look over the moon with happiness. Then, he turns quite serious. We can't hear what he's saying, but next minute Karen is shocked, and terrified for her own and her baby's safety. She stands up and it looks as if she's yelling, pointing at the door. Wixilian is shocked and gets up. But as he leaves the room and walks towards the entrance door, he turns around with a look of animosity. As the door closes behind him, the flashback is finished.

EXT. CLEARING IN A FOREST ON EARTH - EVENING

As the flashback finishes, we return to the clearing. Now, the night has grown even darker, and the fog even thicker. The only source of light is the bright moon up ahead.

DAD

I told her the truth, but humans are shallow and resent what's different. After your mother's betrayal, I returned to the shadows of my home planet. Until one day, when I heard an old tale of an ancient blue stone. One that, if you dared to possess its powers, you could give your heart up to and from it you would receive a prophecy. And from this prophecy, there is a promise of great power.

He grabs her arm and drags her into the centre of the clearing, right under the moonlight. Out of his black ROBES, he pulls out a blue STONE. Once the moonlight hits it, it starts glowing, and out comes a voice.

PROPHECY

When the moon and the earth aligns
The two of one kind
Must the destroy the pine
And that will be the end of mankind

He pulls his robe over the stone, and moves back into the shadow.

DAD

In this stone lays my heart. My soul. To fulfil this prophecy would be to honour me. And you would receive my fatherly love, the way you've always wanted it. And together, we would become the rulers of the universe! The world would be gone, and there would be no suffering from people like us. To those who are different.

LUCY

So, everyone I ever knew will be gone..

DAD

But you would have me, wouldn't that be enough. All you'd have to do is give your heart to the stone, we would become one.

There is a silence. They both stare at each other, the atmosphere gloomy. Lucy nods, she's made her choice.

Lucy

If it means eternity with you, dad, I would anything.

Wixilian smiles a wicked smile, and brings the stone forward, and places it under the moonlight. It starts shining again, mesmerising to the eye. They hold hands and close their eyes, as the ceremony begins. But Lucy opens her eyes, and quickly pulls out a knife she brought with her with the intention of saving her dad. Instead, she plunges the knife down onto the stone. The stone cracks a bit, and in between the blue light that shines out, there is now red blood coming out of it. Wixilian stands still in shock, clutching his side as if he's been stabbed.

DAD

What are you doing?! My heart, you're killing it.

LUCY

Oh, does it hurt you? I didn't know you had a heart you evil, horrible man.

Again, she strikes the knife against the heart again, and the stone cracks some more. Wixilian falls to his knees, pale as a ghost.

LUCY

You really thought I would come with you and betray my home. Hah, see who's gullible now. Actually, I would thank you. Thank you for showing me what my mother never became. She didn't make you leave because you were different. You lied to her! You weren't truthful and kind, you really don't understand humans at all.

She strikes the knife down for the third and last time. The road cracks completely, parting into two. The blue light stops, and out comes only blood. Wicillian lets out a scream before he falls to the ground. His body turns into ashes, and it blows away with the wind

Silence.